DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments with respect to claim 23 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which the subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claim 23 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Balazs as set forth in the previous office action in view of Kennedy et al. (hereinafter Kennedy) and Reid.

Balazs teaches all of the claim limitations except for the conically shaped portion having a greater length than maximum width and a gripping portion as claimed.

Kennedy discloses a hand-actuated piston plunger comprising an elongated vessel member defining a vessel interior, the vessel member having a first vessel end and second vessel end and a drain adapter having a conically shaped portion having a greater length than maximum width. Reid reference which discloses an analogous plunger which further includes a gripping portion (handle 59) extends from a vessel member (40) substantially perpendicularly from the longitudinal axis of the vessel member, the gripping portion extends from the vessel member at least a distance that is as wide as a user's hand so that a user may apply a downward force substantially parallel with the longitudinal axis of the vessel member. The introductory statement of intended use and all other functional phrases have been carefully considered but are deemed not to describe any structure patentably distinguishable over the plunger that disclosed by Balazs which is certainly capable of being used in the claim manner. One of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made can optimized the conically shaped portion to have a greater length then maximum with as for example shown by Figs. 1-3 of Kennedy. Although the gripping portion of the Balazs reference does not extend from the vessel member as claimed, attention is directed to the Reid reference which discloses an analogous plunger which further includes a handle (59) extends from a vessel member (40) at least a distance that is as wide as a user's hand so that a user may apply a downward force substantially parallel with the longitudinal axis of the vessel member. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to employ, on the Balazs device, a gripping portion as, for example, taught by Reid in order to provide better gripping for the user.

Double Patenting

4. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

Art Unit: 3751

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

5. Claim 23 is rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claim 1 of U.S. Patent No. 7,188,377 in view of Kennedy and Raid in a similar fashion as set forth in the 35 USC 103 rejection above.

Conclusion

6. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
